Happy Song

Gerald M. Ginsburg

moderato cantabile

Sing a happy morning song.

Sing a-long your way. Sing a happy evening song At the close of day.

Ped. 1. Ped. Ped.

Sing while you're working. Sing when you play.

Every- where you go.

2.

Sing while you're working. Sing when you play.

Every-where you go. Then, your cares will ^{may} slip away And good fortune will come to ^{may} stay. And your smiling face will show That

You are Someone, Even the very one,

4.

We all want to know.

The first system of the handwritten musical score consists of a vocal line on a single staff and a piano accompaniment on two staves. The vocal line begins with a treble clef and a key signature of one flat (B-flat). The lyrics "We all want to know." are written below the notes. The piano accompaniment features a bass line with a key signature of one flat and a right-hand part with chords and some melodic movement. A dashed line indicates a connection between the piano accompaniment and the second system.

(We all want to know.) f ad lib.

The second system continues the musical score. The vocal line includes the lyrics "(We all want to know.)" and is marked with a forte (f) dynamic and "ad lib." (ad libitum). The piano accompaniment continues with complex chordal textures and some chromatic movement in the bass line. A forte (f) dynamic marking is also present in the piano part.

5.

The third system is primarily piano accompaniment, consisting of two staves. It continues the harmonic and melodic ideas from the previous systems. A measure number "5." is written at the bottom of the system.

Handwritten musical score for piano, consisting of a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. The score includes dynamic markings such as cresc., ff, and Ped., and articulation marks like 8 and 8-. The music features complex chordal textures and melodic lines.

YOU

Sing a happy morning song.

Sing along your way.

Sing a happy evening song

At the close of day.

Sing while you're working.

Sing when you play.

Everywhere you go.

Then, your cares will slip away,

And good fortune will come to stay,

And your smiling face will show

That you are someone,

Even the very one,

We all want to know.
